United States Marshal's Notice.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, } ss
District of Maine, }

Pursuant to a monition from the Hon. EDWARD FOX, Judge of the United States District Court, within and for the District of Maine, I hereby give public notice that the following Libel has been filed in said Court, viz:

A Libel against the schooner Alice, whereof Crocker now is, or lately was Master, her tackle, apparel and furniture, on behalf of Albert B. Mayo, and Benjamin F. Tyler, merchants, under the name and style of Mayo & Tyler of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts, in a cause of contract, civil and maritime, as is more particularly set forth in said libel; also a supplemental libel against said schooner Alice, her tackle, apparel, and furniture, on behalf of the same parties, in a cause, civil and maritime, as is more fully set forth in said libel; that a hearing and trial will be had thereon, at Portland, in said District, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1870, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when and where any persons interested therein may appear and show cause, if any they can be, wherefore the same shall not be decreed liable to said claims, and disposed of according to law.

S. S. MARBLE,
U. S. Marshal, District of Maine.

Dated at Portland, this eleventh day of March, A. D. 1870. mch14 tmg3

To Albert W. Paine, Esq., one of the Justices of the Peace in and for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, three of the Corporators named in an Act to incorporate the HIGHLAND SLATE COMPANY, passed by the Legislature of Maine, and approved Feb. 26, 1870, request you to call a meeting of said company, for the purpose of organizing the corporation, accepting the charter, adopting by-laws, choosing officers, and transacting such other business as may come before them, the meeting to be held at Bangor, in said County, on WEDNESDAY, the 23d day of March, 1870, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at the office of yourself, in said Bangor.

NO SAFER OR BETTER INVESTMENT

THAN THE

First Mortgage Seven Per Cent.

GOLD BONDS

OF THE

Central Railroad of Iowa.

At 95, free from Tax.

This railroad runs 234 miles north and south through the most and most thickly settled portion of the magnificent State of Iowa, and the only link wanting to connect the railway centres at St Louis and St Paul by an unbroken line, 107 miles shorter than any existing route. This road offers many advantages. The building of the railroad north from St Paul to Duluth, at the head of Lake Superior, where five railroads will soon centre—the construction of the North Pacific railroad, already begun—and the rapid development of a new and productive country in Minnesota and the Northwest, must furnish a large Southern traffic. As the Upper Mississippi is frozen over during the Winter, and its navigation is often uncertain during the Summer, from low water, the road must have at all times a large amount of transportation, and a monopoly of the business at some seasons of the year. Its connection with other lines interested by mutual ownership or running arrangements, will give it almost the entire north and south travel between its terminal points and their vicinity.

This road will have a great advantage over any other Western line in carrying the best quality of coal from where it is abundant in Southern Iowa to Northern Iowa and Minnesota, where monopolies be found, and its securing return freights of lumber, for which the demand is very great.

The construction of the road is not an experiment, depending upon any uncertain negotiation of its bonds. It is in the hands of gentlemen of wealth and ability, comprising many leading bankers and railroad builders of experience. Forty-six miles of the line just completed, and eighty-eight miles more are graded. An abundant supply of iron, ties, and all the materials has been contracted for. The company have a large and daily increasing surplus of money on hand, and the stock subscriptions, and the sales of the bonds, give them ample means to push the work forward, so that, with favorable weather, it is expected that the whole line will be completed this season.

Security of the Investment.

So far as we can learn, every completed railroad in the No Name is not only earning the interest on its bonds, but a dividend on its stock, and we believe the Central of Iowa must occupy an equally strong financial position.

The amount of Bonds to be issued is but $16,000 per mile, or less than four millions, in all.

Of which over One Million have already been Sold.

As we consider these securities among the choicest in the market, we have no doubt that the remainder will be rapidly taken, so that it may be well for parties desiring to purchase to do so at once.

WE BELIEVE THERE WILL BE NO MORE FAVORABLE TIME TO SELL GOVERNMENTS, AND BUT REALLY FIRST-CLASS RAILROAD SECURITIES SUCH AS THESE—THAN THE PRESENT.

After a full examination, we have accepted an Agency for the Sale of the above First Mortgage Bonds, and desire to recommend them to our customers as AN UNDOUBTEDLY SAFE, AS WELL, AS PROFITABLE, INVESTMENT. We have no hesitation in saying that, in our opinion, the CENTRAL RAILROAD OF IOWA will be the most important and valuable roads in the West.

HOW THEY LOG.

A correspondent of the Worcester, Mass., Gazette, tells how they log in Oxford county, Me., as follows, which will be interesting especially to our boys and girls:

It is dinner time. In large crowds it is customary to have a hired cook; but here the man who can best be spared, for the time gets dinner, or the men take turns.

The dinner of fried pork and potatoes, or it may be pork and beans and brown bread, or yet again beef steak and potatoes, is soon prepared. While the men are coming, the cook pro tempore almost invariably, in this camp, places hot steamed bread. In this cold weather the bread is frozen, and the potatoes are only saved from a like fate by literally putting them to bed. They are sometimes preserved for days, from Jack Frost's inroads by being wrapped in blankets. But I was speaking of steaming bread. The potato kettle is rinsed, half a pint of water poured in, a small plate inverted over the water, bread placed upon this plate, and the whole closely covered and set upon the stove. This simple expedient adds wonderfully to the logger's comfort.

The men come in all aglow with exercise in the sharp, pure air. I really believed that some of these loggers were whiskey drinkers when I saw them first; but I am sure of my mistake now.

The men sit down with keenest appetites. There is no table-cloth, no milk, and no ceremony. Nearly every article—potatoes, pork, beans, bread, or whatever we have, is as hot as it can be. Every one drinks tea at every meal. I was never with people before where the food was uniformly so comfortable as among the loggers. Before the close of the meal the bread kettle is produced, and we have the steaming bread with syrup or butter as one prefers, followed with pie and doughnuts, brought from home. The days are short and the men soon hurry off to work again; for here the men are working by the job.

The table is left just as the men rise from it, covered with mounds of potato skins and unwashed plates. Uncle Jeems told his wife that housework "naturally does itself." And probably we carry out his idea; for it is a rule among loggers that the places may not be washed so long as the individual logger can tell by inspection what was eaten by him last from the plate. Often, however, there is a general dish-washing after supper, but never at any other time. The leave-work comes near doing itself "naturally."

Logging is a great trade and the outsider must be sharp indeed who will beat an old hand on his own ground. The old logger knows a thousand things wonderful to the new comer. He may know next to nothing of books, but the trees have revealed their secrets to him, which are locked from the rest of us. He seems to find the pure nuggets of spruce gum by instinct. You see him pass by a noble spruce tree, and ask why he does not cut it. "Rotten" he says. You look the tree all over. It appears thrifty, and the foliage is as green as any you can see. You secretly doubt as being rotten, and propose, for fun, only for fun, you know, to chop into it. He has a sarcastic look while you are doing it. Yes, it is rotten enough. How did he know. "Look in the bark," he says, pointing to a slight imperfection in the tree.

By and by, he rejects another tree. You ask the reason. "Rotten" he says again. You look the tree all over. The bark seems sound and the foliage is green to the tip top. You try it and it is unsound at the heart. How did he know? He strikes his axe upon it. "By the sound." You would no more catch him cutting a rotten tree, than you would find a squirrel laying open an unsound nut.

He selects ship timber, and if he cannot find a great branch that comes out at right angles of which to form a knee, he digs up the root of a great yellow birch. He knows where the great crooked root is. It has only one great root, and that is on the northwest side. How does he know? "A' most all our high winds are from the northwest." "Well, I don't see why that should make such a tremendous root on the northwest." He continues: "If you use your arm well, it becomes strong. The strong wind blows the tree and moves the northwest root most; that loosens it and throws out any amount of little fibres, and after a little it grows fastest and is strongest of all." "Yes, I see it." "Your right arm, that serves you more, is the stronger; and the root that serves the tree most is strongest and largest."

The old logger is a skilled workmen, and I will not not dispute even his theories about the trees.

THE MIANTONOMOH AND MONARCH. In conversation the other day, Admiral Farragut expressed the opinion that "the Miantonomoh, ugly as she is, if she could get along side of the Monarch's broadside, would make short work of her." And the Admiral was right. The thing for the Monarch to do under such circumstances would be to use her 8000 horse-power engines to get out of the monitor's way. It is well to remember, too, that her speed is obtained only at the cost of an enormous expenditure of coal. 150 tons being consumed in maintaining her speed of 15 knots for twenty four hours. At this rate she can carry coal for less than four days.

MAN SCALDED.—Abel Waterman, residing at No. 2 Short street, was severely scalded this morning by the upsetting of a hot kettle of hot water from the stove. The circumstances which led to the accident were amusing enough to somewhat "dull the edge of pain" in Waterman's case. His little boy, full of mischief, as three-year olds always are, had dropped a pet kitten into one of his father's rubber boots—a very common trick among juveniles. The result was that when Mr. Waterman, who was in something of a hurry, attempted to draw on the already occupied boot, he gave a yell, and at the same time a leap that would have done credit to either of the Hanlon Brothers, upsetting the kettle upon his other unprotected foot, and giving him cause to remember that kitten, since deceased, for a good week at least

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Opinions of the Press.

[From the Bath Times]

We second the call of the Bangor Whig in its nomination of Gen. Samuel F Hersey, of Bangor, as the next Republican candidate for Governor of this State. We have long been aware that Gen Hersey has been favorably mentioned in this connection. Last year at this time he was looked upon as the "coming man," but he most emphatically declined to have his name used as a gubernatorial candidate, and so in deference to his feelings and wishes he was permitted to remain in retirement. For several weeks past, the question of who shall be the next candidate of the Republican party for Governor? has been quietly discussed at the Capital in political circles, and although several have been mentioned in connection with that office, the name of Gen Hersey has commanded such a decided majority in his favor, from gentlemen representing all sections of the State, that his nomination may be almost regarded as a foregone conclusion. We understand that Gen Hersey has been informed of the popular feeling that has set so strongly in his favor, and, although at first, he was disposed to adhere to his convictions of last year, yet, when assured that he was already the choice of the great mass of his political associates, and that with him as a standard bearer the compactness and unity of the party would be secured, he consented against his own inclinations to obey what has been represented to him as the imperative demands of the hour. With Gen Hersey as a candidate, we have a gentleman who possesses in an eminent degree the confidence and respect of the people—He is an earnest and unflinching Republican, as true to the principles of his party as the needle to the pole. In his honorable and useful career as a legislator, he has shown himself to be just the man to watch over the moral and material interests of the State. He is a practical economist and his admirable management of his own extensive business affairs is the best guarantee of what he would do if placed in the Executive chair. For all wise and judicious measures for the promotion of our varied industries, moral reforms, and for the development of our immense resources as a State and for her advancement to the highest prosperity, General Hersey gives his earnest and cordial indorsement. He thoroughly understands the duties and necessities of the hour. With him as Chief Magistrate the Republican party will be preserved and perpetuated. As the party of progress it will remain true to its original purposes and secure and make practical by proper State and National legislation the principles upon which rests the prosperity and moral powers of the land. The nomination of Gen. Hersey for Governor, will unite the party in indissoluable bonds, and restore it to its former harmony and invincibility. We trust that the popular judgment will acquiesce in his selection.

[From the Rockland Free Press]

The Bangor Whig and Courier presents Gen Samuel F Hersey, of that city, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. Gen Hersey's name was mentioned by some of his friends last year, as a candidate for the position, but when it came to his knowledge that Gen Chamberlain was a candidate for re-nomination, he peremptorily refused to allow his name to be used. This year he is first in the field, and combining as he does, sterling common sense, ripe business qualifications and considerable legislative experience, with great social popularity and a reputation for whole-souled philanthropy, it may be doubted whether any man can be named who will unite the Republican party more completely, and receive a heartier support than he. We concede nothing to Bangor on the score of local claims. There are other sections of the State more deserving on that ground, but in the personal merits of the man whom she now puts forth, a strong appeal is made to the voters of the State. Doubtless we have other men—we could name some near home—who would grace the office of Governor, and do as much for the honor and progress of the State as General Hersey, but there are few better suited, it seems to us, to maintain the prominent rank which we are just attaining by our efforts for internal development than he.

The movement for reduced taxation, which means a relief from some of the needless burdens of the tariff, is gaining ground every day. The Boston Journal enrolls itself emphatically in the category of those who would reform our revenue, and we quote its article —

"The truth of the matter was well expressed by Congressman Hay of Illinois, who said in the House debate on Monday, that "the present system of taxation is exorbitant and needlessly burdensome, and a reduction of taxation to the lowest point consistent with the demand for revenue should be made." The resolution, also, offered on the same day by Mr Marshall, truthfully declared that "the depressed condition of business and the various industrial interests of the country demand of Congress prompt action in relieving the people of all burdens of taxation not absolutely necessary to provide for the wants of the Government, economically administered" It was gratifying to see that this resolution triumphed over a motion to lay it on the table by a vote of one hundred and eighteen to thirty-eight, although an adroit flank motion evaded the previous question and sent the resolution to the Committee on Ways and Means. Some specific directions as to the modification of the tariff were embraced in the above resolution which may or may not have been wise; but we hope that the vote against laying the resolution on the table will embolden other members either to offer resolutions instructing the appropriate committees to report bills reducing taxation, or else lead to the introduction directly of such bills into the House. The publicity ... to this point ... [illegible]

JOHN H LYNDE, - - PROPRIETOR

SATURDAY MARCH 19 1870

THE GOVERNORSHIP

The informal nomination of Gen. Hersey as the Republican candidate for Governor for the coming campaign meets with marked favor in different parts of the State. The Bath Times pointedly seconds the nomination, and thinks its acceptance by the State Convention is a foregone conclusion. The Rockland Free Press also indorses the nomination warmly. We give articles from these two papers in this issue. The Portland Press and the Kennebec Journal copied our remarks upon the subject with apparent approval. We think there can scarcely be a doubt that the people will respond heartily to these sentiments when the time comes for them to be heard.

There seems, however, a determination on the part of a few to needlessly and gratuitously press other than legitimate issues into the decision of this Gubernatorial question. The Augusta correspondent of the Boston Advertiser has taken great pains to circulate this little bit of gossip: "A general determination to run Governor Chamberlain again and a short time will develop more significant signs of the coming year's work, made doubly important by the approaching senatorial contest." We believe this is merely an unauthorized invention, and unworthy of confidence. The Senatorship does not and should not enter into this question; when that subject comes before us it will be settled upon its merits. We are now only to select the candidate of the Republican party for Governor and that selection should be made also upon its merits.

Every circumstance being favorable to Gen Hersey's nomination, we are quite certain that the party could not do better for itself or the State than to nominate him. He will unite the party and make a good Governor.

Just before the New Hampshire election the Bath Advocate said "A Temperance Party is already organized in New Hampshire under extremely favorable auspices." Upon the strength of this text it preached quite a sermon in favor of a temperance party in this State. We accepted its argument as in favor of a distinct third party at that time. But possibly we may have been mistaken. Indeed, we must have been mistaken. It could not have been that the Advocate referred to the puny movement in favor of the Reverend Mister Barrows, who desired to step down from the pulpit to the Governorship, as being organized under "extremely favorable auspices." We give it more credit for sagacity than that. But the party which re-elected Gov. Stearns is the great temperance party in New Hampshire, and that was literally organized under "extremely favorable auspices," having received thirty-two thousand of the sixty thousand votes cast, while the gentleman who switched off on the side track received little more than one thousand. The Advocate was therefore no doubt complimenting the Republican party organization and it deserves credit in that view, not only for sagacity but for veracity, not strictly characteristic. Now let it follow up the work with a few words of encouragement for the great temperance party of Maine, it may then just begin its claim literally to be a temperance Advocate.

We have before had occasion to mention "Mack," the Washington correspondent of one of the Cincinnati papers. That he is the father of slanderers, as well as liars, will be conjectured from this extract, which is going the rounds of the Democratic papers. He is speaking of an imaginary official and in his words:

"He told me of a sun dial which had been constructed in one of the frontier forts—a very plain article on a granite pedestal, the actual value of which he estimated at $17. What do you think the Government has paid for it? He assured me that he had gone to the trouble to examine the vouchers in the department, and said he, 'as I'm a living man, that sun dial has cost the Government $40,000.' I asked how it was done. 'I don't know,' said he, 'I only know that every quartermaster and commissary who had anything to do with the fort own a pair of horses, with silver mounted monogram harness, and splendid carriages and big stone front houses.' He enumerated a variety of other abuses of the kind."

Thus this "informant," having seen a few luxuries in the hands of certain officials and with judges a swindle to have been committed by them whereby an article worth $17 is charged $40,000. He said he didn't know how it was done, and that he only knew that the officials revelled in luxuries. It is quite natural for Democrats to put cause and effect together in that style, but we submit that it is too shade soft to spread such self-evident humbugs before intelligent people.

We publish a communication this morning upon General Thomas and the Military operations in the South-west, which will attract attention. The writer wonders how any Republican paper could circulate such articles as that from the Tribune in the Whig of yesterday. It should be understood that we do not indorse all the news that appears to deserve publication, either from the nature or the source. Where an authority states definite incidents, as did the correspondent of the Tribune, they attract attention for good or evil, and in either case our readers will justify us in giving them the gist of the current gossip. Theories and suppositions we should not be justified in circulating to any one's detriment, and for this reason we did erase an insinuation that Gen Thomas was seeking to enter the next Presidential race.

We learn from Augusta that the Legislature will probably adjourn the first of next week. It is thought the Revised Statutes may be passed to be enacted in a body to go into effect the first of January, 1871.

City of Mexico dispatch of the 17th, report that a heavy battle has taken place between the revolutionists and Government troops of Mexico. The revolutionists were beaten and compelled to flee before a bayonet charge of the troops. Three hundred insurgents were killed and 1000 taken prisoners. Generals S Cardena and Huerta escaped with 500 men. Gen Toledo has about the same number which is all that is left of the formidable force recently menacing the Government. Pronunciados have gone forth for the purpose of concentrating the revolutionists in the State of Michoacan. General Escobedo has been ordered to that section. The revolutionary officers who left the State of Mexico during the last few weeks have been mostly captured or killed.

STRIKE IN THE COAL REGIONS. The Philadelphia Ledger of Monday says that the difficulties in the anthracite coal regions seem to be reaching a crisis, especially in the Schuylkill region. Trade there has very nearly reached a stand-still, while in the Lehigh and other regions north, it is progressing moderately, to the great prejudice of the trade in the Schuylkill region. This is stimulating efforts to a compromise of differences between the operators and miners in the Schuylkill region, to which end a meeting was called for a conference between the representatives of the two interests, at Pottsville, yesterday. The Ledger remarks that there is very little coal on hand, and at the very low coal freights which rule, vessel masters look elsewhere for employment.

GENERAL THOMAS

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

The article in your columns to-day purporting to have been copied from the New York Tribune and casting reproach upon the conduct of General Geo H Thomas at the battle of Nashville does not require a word of explanation to any of the men who served in the Army of the Southwest since it is to them too palpable a falsehood.

We will not deny that Grant became uneasy with Thomas and even ordered Logan [not Schofield] to relieve him but as to the cause of this feeling of jealousy distrust—or whatever you may please to call it—we know that on the part of General Geo H Thomas it never influenced him in the performance of his duty. As to the battle of Nashville it was the most complete and crushing blow in the Southwest and none but a few malcontents has cause to complain of its effects. The "ten thousand men" whom the author of the article states were withheld from the battle were simply the few thousand workmen connected from the depots at Nashville and [illegible] in the trenches while Thomas led out the veterans to the attack. As to the escape of the rebel army with its munitions of war, we can say on the authority of the officers who commanded its rear guard, that it was utterly disorganized and as to its artillery, one of our own Bangor boys (Gen Ed Hatch), who commanded the pursuing cavalry can testify that not a single cannon crossed the Tennessee with the disordered bands of the Rebel Army.

Gen Thomas has never been an applicant for political honors and is singularly averse to publication and notoriety and we fail to perceive the cause of this low and malicious attack upon his military record. When this record is made public we have no hesitation in saying that the hero of Somerset, Murfreesboro' Chicamauga, Atlanta and Nashville will stand forth in the history of our country as the American Ajax. Who stayed the victorious rebel columns at Murfeesboro and gave time to the Union Army to reform and recover. Who like a lion at bay shook off the swarming and infuriated rebels at Chicamauga and saved our army from utter annihilation? Who struck and pierced the Rebel centre at Mission Ridge and compelled the Southern army to retreat? Who made the bold flank march to Jonesboro and won Atlanta in spite of the desperate blows of the entire rebel forces? We believe—and it is without observation among the armies of the Republic—that no other officer of so high a station in our [illegible] ... [illegible] ... will wonder that any Republican paper could lend itself to circulate the article in question which is not only false but exceedingly ungenerous. H

The Concord Patriot has a long article showing that the object of the New Hampshire Democratic State Central Committee's truck and dicker with the Labor Reformers was to sell out the "unterrified"—body and brain—to the latter party, in consideration of the united powers erecting a common platform, founded on the antagonism of capital to labor and that the high contracting parties were to reap the official fruit of the agreement. But the Patriot being the mouth piece of the Bourbon section of the Democracy says this shall never be, and it is extremely probable that affairs among those opposed to the present dominant party in the State will continue to be in such a demoralized condition—according to its threatenings—that the Democratic restoration will be a thing, if it ever happens, of the very far future.

The statistics of recent wars have been compiled by Beaulieu, a Frenchman, from which it appears that the loss of life in the Crimean war included 784,891 men, and that in our late war the number of lives sacrificed in the Northern army was 281,000, and in the Southern army 519,000—total, 800,000—or only 36,000 more than were killed in the Crimean war. The total number of deaths caused by war, in Europe and in this country, during the past thirteen years, was 1,748,890.

The New York Times says the report of the Board of Health of that city states that in the recent visitations of small pox a very large proportion of adults fell victims. They had nearly all been vaccinated in infancy. It will be some consolation to those who have submitted to the inconveniences of revaccination to know that the precaution is absolutely necessary as a safeguard against the disease. Medical opinion seems to have established the fact that the effects of vaccination as a prophylactic do not last more than eight or ten years.

A CARD

From Rev Drs HERRICK and POND

... Work from which Mr CLARKE of the Bangor Seminary is Agent entitled "The New World Compared with the Old" is one of the best books for family reading. In the many contrasts between the Nations of Europe on one side particularly England and France and the United States on the other, graphically presented by the author, young and old will be, while interested, much instructed.

The book is well bound and sold at a moderate price. J R HERRICK

I agree with the foregoing. ENOCH POND

New Method of Extracting Teeth Without Pain

DR. L. T. WASGATT,

Surgeon Dentist,

Has purchased an apparatus for producing local anaesthesia by the vapor of ether, invented by the celebrated Dr. B W RICHARDSON of London.

By using this instrument, the patient gets rid of the dread of taking ether for the spray is only applied to the teeth and gums, and does not affect the patient in the least. Dr. WASGATT has been using the ether spray for the past few weeks with marked success extracting six to eight teeth at one sitting and his patients say they never will take ether when they can get the ether spray applied to the gums.

5th. In seeking insurance safety is the main point, at a fair rate of premium, and so it is to insure in the Strongest Company rather than in weak and newly established ones.

6th. The "FRANKLIN," as shown by the Insurance Commissioners report, January 1st, paid back the Capital to stockholders, reinsured every risk in good Companies, paid every Dollar of loss, and then had over One Million Dollars to divide among the stockholders. This is shown by no other company in the United States. The par value of stock is $100 [illegible] $550.

7th. The "FRANKLIN" is managed by Officers and Directors who have a large part of the Capital Stock and property, and its Agents are all selected with particular care as to their ability for the position, knowledge of the insurance business and good personal character being secure an appointment.

Insures against Loss by Fire, Ocean, Marine and Inland Navigation and Transportation Risks.

The Phenix Insurance Company of Brooklyn, N Y, was incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, in September, 1853, with a paid up Capital of $200 000

The Insurance Laws of New York are universally admitted to be the BEST IN THE WORLD, and the Policy holder is protected at all hazards

The Official Reports of the Company to the State of New York

In 1865 the Capital was increased to One Million Dollars, by a Cash Subscription of $500 000

December 31, 1865, Cash Assets, less Liabilities,

" 1866, " "

" 1867, " "

" 1868, " "

" 1869, " "

DECEMBER 31, 1863 the Company could have paid back its Capital to the Stockholders, reinsured all its risks in good companies, paid off all Liabilities and had a net Reserve of over $300 000. This is due to having been attained by a careful scrutiny of Risks, a careful selection of Agents and an economical management of the Company's affairs.

And, as in the above period, so few Companies have "held their own" especial attention is invited to this showing of the onward progress of the PHENIX.

FORTY FIRST CONGRESS--SECOND SESSION

WASHINGTON, March 17.

SENATE.

Mr Conkling, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom the were referred the credentials of General Ames, reported the same back, with a resolution that that gentleman was not eligible to a seat in the Senate of the United States from Mississippi

Mr Rice, as a member of the Committee, said he did not concur in the report

Mr Sumner proposed the following amendment to Senate bill No. 658 sec. 4 — And be it further enacted that the fractional currency in the treasury at respective dates hereinafter recited, shall hereafter be forthwith cancelled and destroyed, that is to say, on and after the 4th of July next, all currency of the denominations of 10 and 15 cents, on and after the 4th of September next, of the denomination of 25 cents, on and after the 4th of November next, of the denomination of 50 cents, and thereafter no payment from the treasury in fractional parts of a dollar, shall be in other than the coin of the United States

Mr Fenton offered a joint resolution, authorizing the Government to have the Pelhamitepec surveyed by a corps of engineers, with a view of the construction of a ship canal

Mr. Wilson offered the following as an amendment, which he intended to offer to the Georgia bill

That in consequence of the illegal disorganizing and revolutionary proceedings of the General Assembly of Georgia, it shall be and hereby is declared that the term of service of the said General Assembly, shall date from the 20th of Jan 1870, and shall continue until the persons to be chosen on the Tuesday after the first Monday of Nov 1872, as members of the General Assembly of the said State are qualified as provided in the last clause of the second sub-division of the first clause of the third article of the constitution of Georgia, in the following words.

'The General Assembly may by law change the time of elections, and the members shall hold until their successors are elected and qualified, but it shall never be, by any Legislature, exercised so as to extend the time of any office beyond the regular period named in said constitution, and the said General Assembly shall, by joint resolution, consent to this fundamental condition before this act shall take effect.

After considerable more discussion on this bill the Senate adjourned

HOUSE

After several petitions had been referred, the bill allowing the application for the further extension of the patent of R B Goodyear originally granted on power looms, was taken up

Mr Dawes of Mass, opposed the whole system of selecting certain inventions, and having them extended to an undue length of time, and hoped the House would cease giving encouragement to combinations and monopolies

The bill was defended by Mr Jencks of Rhode Island

The bill was laid on the table.

Several bills allowing applications for extensions of Patents, were passed.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the tariff bill.

Mr Stevenson of O addressed the House in favor of the reduction of taxation and against protective tariff

He said that in two years the surplus revenue would reach $15,000,000 a year and urged that the people be relieved of the burden of taxation and tariff He wanted coal, salt, sugar tea and coffee free of duty.

The Committee rose, and the House passed a number of bills relating to the District of Columbia, including one establishing ten per cent as the maximum rate of interest, and six per cent when not otherwise stipulated.

The bill incorporating the Washington and Boston Steamboat Company has passed.

A bill was introduced and referred, for the relief of the families of the men lost on the U S steam tug Maria, lately run down by the monitor, Miantonomoh

M Morgan of Ohio, offered a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire whether, under the rule forbidding members to vote on questions in which they are directly interested, those members who are officers or stockholders of national banks can vote on the funding bill

Mr Maynard objected

The House then adjourned

MAINE LEGISLATURE.

AUGUSTA, Me, March 18.

In the Senate the Conference Committee reported ought to pass on the bill transferring the employment of teachers to School Committee and the Senate passed the bill—Yeas 16 nays 11

The Valuation Committee reported a resolve substantially adopting the report of the Valuation Commission Upon the merits of the report a hasty debate followed, the substance of which was that it would be accepted as a better pull for this year only

In the House the resolve in favor of the Maine General Hospital passed finally It appropriates the Arsenal lot and $20,000 conditionally, for that purpose

The resolve in favor of the Bath Asylum and Agricultural College also passed finally

Bills to authorize towns to loan their aid to manufacturing companies and to authorize the State Treasurer to issue registered bonds, the bill authorizing manufacturing companies to take private property the same as railroads was refused a passage by a vote of 30 to 89

Bill concerning Insurance and Insurance Companies was amended so that all fees received by the Examiner over $2,500, shall go to the State, and passed to be engrossed.

SECOND SESSION

In the Senate, Mr Cushing introduced an order requesting the Governor to pay the Valuation Commission for the days only that they were attending to business

The Union Depot charter was passed—14 to 10

The George's River Railroad Corporation bill was passed

The Valuation Resolve, which adopts the report of the Commission, was passed, the test vote standing—9 to 18

In the House the Aroostook Railroad charter was considered and a compromise was adopted, so as to fix the Southern terminus between Molunkus and Bancroft, and its central location between the east line of Houlton and west line of Smyrna.

The State valuation was adopted by a vote of 74 to 35, under a suspension of the rules

The Finance Committee were ordered to assess the State tax on the new valuation

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

NEW YORK, March 18.

While some laborers were carrying bags of nitro-glycerine from Schaffner's factory to a sloop on the banks of the Hackensack river New Jersey yesterday afternoon, one of the workmen dropped a bag which exploded. The sloop had some 25,000 pounds of nitro-glycerine stored in it. The explosion started a second explosion and then the first. The shock of the explosion was felt in the banking went off with a force beyond description The consequences were terrible.

GREAT FIRE IN ROCKLAND.

ROCKLAND, March 18.

The large factory of the Rockland Manufacturing Co, situated on the corner of Main and Limerock streets, was discovered on the Photograph rooms of S W Sawyer, in the wooden block at the west end of Kenduskeag Bridge. The flames rapidly spread so that in half an hour nearly the whole block was involved, and in two hours was in ruins It was with the greatest difficulty that anything could be saved in the upper stories We believe nothing was removed from Mr Sawyer's saloon He occupied one room in the second story and nearly the whole of the third, and his stock was valuable.

On the second story were E T Wasgatt's Dentist office, Mr Ray's Hair Dressing Saloon, Perkins, & Smith's law office, Alex McKinnon's clothing repair shop, and Bugbee & Co.'s book bindery, and S. F. Walker's, detective office, and S. F. Humphrey's law office The stores below were occupied by W. A Dresser & Co, clothiers, Wm. H. Flagg, boots and shoes, Timothy and James Hurley, clothing, D Bugbee & Co, books and stationery, and J E. Chapman, clothing, and in the third story, P. Hanley's tailor shop By a systematic effort of the insurance agents, the goods were pretty effectually removed from the stores of the Messrs Hurley, but the rest were less fortunate. Mr. Dresser's goods were removed in good part, but the fire having commenced immediately over them, the goods were necessarily damaged a good deal before they were reached, and they were much damaged. They were insured for $2000. Of Mr. Flagg's stock but little was removed as the fire was so soon raging in that part of the block. His loss is six or eight thousand dollars, insured for $4000 The Hurleys' stock was insured for $3000 each

A good part of the valuable stock of D Bugbee & Co, was removed but necessarily in a damaged state from its nature They were insured for $18,000, which will cover all loss, probably Of the occupants overhead we could learn little at the time of going to press Mr Sawyer was insured for $4,000 The furniture and implements of Wasgatt's office were mostly removed.

The firemen were promptly on hand and worked with zeal, and the citizens were very efficient in handling goods in the brief time allowed.

The cause of the fire is not known Mr Sawyer had been sick for a day or two, and had been in his rooms but little. Mr Clapp, his assistant, left the rooms about five o'clock, yesterday afternoon, in charge of two apprentices The building burned like tinder, and the fire was scarcely discovered before it became evident the whole block must go

The block was owned three-fourths by Chas Stetson, and one-fourth by S P. Strickland Mr Stetson was not insured at all, and we believe Strickland was insured only for a small amount.

GRAND CONCERT Last evening the Bangor Cornet Band, assisted by Mr. Ora Pearson of Boston, gave one of their rich entertainments to the citizens of Bangor, at City Hall, for the benefit of Mr. F. C. Shaefer, Clarinetist, a very talented performer, and whose valuable services they hope to be able to retain through the liberality of the citizens of Bangor The programme arranged was one of the richest ever offered by them, and should have filled the hall at an early hour but for lack of interest in home talent or for some other unaccountable reason, such was not the case.

The opening piece—"Selections from Balfini's Opera Somnambula," arranged by Ruggleben, given by the Military Band—was rendered in an artistic manner and deserving great credit, also the following piece: "Fantasie—All the rage in London," introducing the famous Anvil Polka, arranged by J Rivere, performed by the full Band—was exceedingly interesting, and executed in a manner to be appreciated by the ear of the most severe critic The Orchestra then performed selections from Lucrezia Borgia, by "Donizetti," to the great interest of the audience, followed by the rendering of the Ballad, Welcome Home, by Mr Ora Pearson of Boston, accompanied by Orchestra. Mr. Pearson, who is always hailed in our midst with interest, was received with applause. His rendering of the Ballad was exceedingly fine, and being encored, he repeated the same, much to the appreciation and enjoyment of the audience.

Mr. A. D Harlow, leader of the Band, followed, supported by the orchestra, with the Cornet Solo, "Excelsior Polka," by R. Frewin, which he performed in a manner well worthy the reputation of himself and the band.

FIRE. About one o'clock this morning, fire was discovered in the Photograph rooms of S W Sawyer, in the wooden block at the west end of Kenduskeag Bridge. The flames rapidly spread so that in half an hour nearly the whole block was involved, and in two hours was in ruins It was with the greatest difficulty that anything could be saved in the upper stories We believe nothing was removed from Mr Sawyer's saloon He occupied one room in the second story and nearly the whole of the third, and his stock was valuable.

On the second story were E T Wasgatt's Dentist office, Mr Ray's Hair Dressing Saloon, Perkins, & Smith's law office, Alex McKinnon's clothing repair shop, and Bugbee & Co.'s book bindery, and S. F. Walker's, detective office, and S. F. Humphrey's law office The stores below were occupied by W. A Dresser & Co, clothiers, Wm. H. Flagg, boots and shoes, Timothy and James Hurley, clothing, D Bugbee & Co, books and stationery, and J E. Chapman, clothing, and in the third story, P. Hanley's tailor shop By a systematic effort of the insurance agents, the goods were pretty effectually removed from the stores of the Messrs Hurley, but the rest were less fortunate. Mr. Dresser's goods were removed in good part, but the fire having commenced immediately over them, the goods were necessarily damaged a good deal before they were reached, and they were much damaged. They were insured for $2000. Of Mr. Flagg's stock but little was removed as the fire was so soon raging in that part of the block. His loss is six or eight thousand dollars, insured for $4000 The Hurleys' stock was insured for $3000 each

A good part of the valuable stock of D Bugbee & Co, was removed but necessarily in a damaged state from its nature They were insured for $18,000, which will cover all loss, probably Of the occupants overhead we could learn little at the time of going to press Mr Sawyer was insured for $4,000 The furniture and implements of Wasgatt's office were mostly removed.

The firemen were promptly on hand and worked with zeal, and the citizens were very efficient in handling goods in the brief time allowed.

The cause of the fire is not known Mr Sawyer had been sick for a day or two, and had been in his rooms but little. Mr Clapp, his assistant, left the rooms about five o'clock, yesterday afternoon, in charge of two apprentices The building burned like tinder, and the fire was scarcely discovered before it became evident the whole block must go

The block was owned three-fourths by Chas Stetson, and one-fourth by S P. Strickland Mr Stetson was not insured at all, and we believe Strickland was insured only for a small amount.

GRAND CONCERT Last evening the Bangor Cornet Band, assisted by Mr. Ora Pearson of Boston, gave one of their rich entertainments to the citizens of Bangor, at City Hall, for the benefit of Mr. F. C. Mr. A. D Harlow, leader of the Band, followed, supported by the orchestra, with the Cornet Solo, "Excelsior Polka," by R. Frewin, which he performed in a manner well worthy the reputation of himself and the band.

The Cornet Solo, Concert Polka, La Phoceenne, by Lagard, which was given in his usual skilful manner

The Clarinet Solo, Rhodes Air, with variations, performed by Mr F C Shaefer conveyed us fully of his talent as a Clarinetist.

The Military Band rendered the Fantasie—All the rage in America arranged by Ruglieben, much to the satisfaction of all present

The closing piece by the full band Grand Comic Fantasie on Popular Melodies, entitled 'Echoes of the Night" was very fully appreciated

We are very sorry that we should have availed ourselves of the opportunity of spending so pleasant an evening for we consider the Concert of last evening, in every respect, to be one of the finest our Band ever favored us with

DEATH OF MARS The mail from Chesterville due yesterday morning at 9 o'clock did not arrive until 5 o'clock in the evening—42 hours late The Brownville, due Thursday evening and the Piscataquis and Monroe due at 10 o'clock a m have not yet arrived The train from Boston left Portland at half past five Thursday evening At eight they were at Yarmouth which was the last heard of them up to the time of going to press—9 a m Arrangements are made for a train from Waterville bringing Kennebec passengers arrived at half past 11 o'clock last evening

THE FIRE The losses by the fire yesterday morning were not quite so large as at first supposed Henry Lane, contractor, loses from $3000 to $4,000 in stock and fixtures and his insurance is $2000 in the Home of New Haven The losses of Samuel Oak Lost land & Pittsburg Railroad Company 27, Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company 79¾, do preferred 90, Chicago & Rock Island Railroad Company 116, Milwaukee & St Paul Railroad Company 58, preferred 90, Pittsburg & Fort Wayne Railroad 93¾, Wabash Railroad Company 90, Erie Railroad 24¾, preferred 45, Ohio & Mississippi Railroad 28, Boston Hartford & Erie 6½

MARRIED OR NOT?—One of the most curious domestic cases that has been before the New York courts for some time is the suit of slander of Della W Moore against John S Bonnell the damages being placed at $5,000 Miss Moore the plaintiff, is a schoolmistress of twelve years standing, and is twenty seven years of age, and has lost her situation as a teacher through the assertions of Bonnell that she is his wife Her two sisters have also lost their places as teachers Bonnell was a soldier, and claims that after the war he was secretly married to Miss Moore by the late Rev Dr McClintock, that the clergyman gave him a certificate of the marriage and that, after it first began to be rumored that they were married, he gave her, out of pure love, an affidavit that he had never married her at all He brings some witnesses to prove that he had introduced her to people as 'Mrs Bonnell' The testimony of Dr McClintock and his family is singularly worthless, as no one remembered how the lady looked Ministers' families are so often called upon to act as witnesses that their recollection of any one ceremony is not worth a straw, a fact that bears an obvious moral The evidence of any "married life" is very slight Miss Moore denies the marriage in toto and rests triumphantly on Bonnell's affidavit. She admits that she corresponded with him for a long time, and her letters are produced,—very good love letters to "darling" etc She claims that Bonnell used to practice writing her name and could imitate very perfectly She held his bank book, but drew no money, and Bonnell also gave her an insurance policy on his own life payable to her The case is very mysterious, and involves some extraordinary lying on one side or the other.

The jury on Tuesday was discharged, as they could not agree.

Queen Victoria, after hearing of the Prince of Wales's testimony in the Mordaunt case, wrote to the prince in affectionate congratulation, and invited him to call, with the Princess, at Windsor Castle, on their return from Scotland. THE CUBAN CAUSE Gen J Watson Webb has written a remarkable letter to the New York Tribune from Havana. His report on the situation is quite startling, and reveals a state of affairs anything but flattering to American pride, while at the same time, the full extent of the rebellion and its present strength are stated at much higher figures than any heretofore received from that quarter He asserts that our Government and that of Spain are kept in profound ignorance regarding affairs in Cuba On this point he is emphatic He continues

I hazard nothing in saying, that had Gen Grant and Hamilton Fish been permitted to know the whole truth, both remarks would have been conveyed to the Cubans in such a way in utter disregard of the arrogant and ominous threats of Spain to consider such a proceeding on our part a casus belli

The volunteers, made up for the most part of robbers, thieves, jail birds and criminals of every hue, virtually govern the island He says

The cruelties perpetrated upon the Cubans not fully exceed belief, and the cold blooded murders perpetrated daily on the island and the unheard of atrocities both here practiced by both Spanish soldiers and Spanish Volunteers upon defenceless women and children makes one's blood boil with indignation at the recital of them To be a Cuban is in the eyes of the Spaniards to be a traitor

In another place he states

I am told, on authority which I cannot doubt scenes of barbarity which occur daily and every day are absolutely incredible, except by the people of this Island Cuba is not shot down and killed and whole families wholly exterminated without even the pretence of an excuse Soldiers passing along amuse themselves by shooting all they meet and the horrors daily perpetrated surpass belief It is time to tell it as it is for 20,000 have thus been slaughtered with arms not their hands

But the most remarkable statements is that of the agent of the associated press in Havana, one Adolph, made to the General in presence of other parties Adolph is intimate with the family of the Captain General He Gen Welch is remarked

Young people I met would not see the Cubans Now I know the fact that a late Minister from this country now living in the city of New York has offered his services to bring 20,000 soldiers in this city and drive the Cubans from the Island if need be and in the opinion of Spaniards and who served during the Peninsular war and now resides in Massachusetts has written to the Captain General, offering to bring down forty thousand men for the same purpose

Add to this a dozen more instances of the same kind that have come to my knowledge in the last month and I cannot but conclude that he could soon bring the matter to a speedy termination

It does seem as though he was going rather further, in his advocacy of Spain

Count Dillon the French Minister to Peru Allan has been using all his influence to prevent the acceptance by the Government of the doctrine of Piquet Inviolability in case existing differences with Chili have not been settled by the French private mediation of Mr Dardonville

MY TRIUMPH.

BY JOHN G WHITTIER

The autumn-time has come;
On woods that dream of bloom,
And over purpling vines,
The low sun fainter shines.

The aster-flower is failing,
The hazel's gold is paling,
Yet overhead more near
The eternal stars appear!

And present gratitude
Insures the future's good,
And for the things I see
I trust the things to be,

That in the path untrod,
And the long days of God,
My feet shall still be led,
My heart be comforted.

O living friends who love me!
O dear one gone above me!
Careless of other fame,
I leave to you my name

Hide it from idle praises,
Save it from evil phrases;
Why, when dear lips that spake it
Are dumb, should strangers wake it?

Let the thick curtain fall
I be ter know than all
How little I have gained
How vast the unattained.

Not by the page word painted
Let life be banned or sainted
Deeper than written scroll
The colors of the soul

Sweeter than any sung
My songs that found no tongue
Nobler than any fact
My wish that failed of act

Others shall sing the song,
Others shall right the wrong,—
Finish what I begin,
And all I fail to win.

What matter, I or they?
Mine or another's day,
So the right word be said
And life the sweeter made?

Hail to the coming singers!
Hail to the brave light-bringers!
Forward I reach and share
All that they sing and dare

The airs of heaven blow o'er me
A glory shines before me
Of what mankind shall be —
Pure, generous, brave and free

A dream of man and woman
Diviner but still human
Solving the riddle old,
Shaping the Age of Gold

The love of God and neighbor
An equal-handed labor;
The richer life, where beauty
Walks hand in hand with duty

Ring, bells in unreared steeples,
The joy of unborn peoples,
Sound, trumpets far off blown,
Your triumph is my own!

Parcel and part of all,
I keep the festival,
Fore-reach the good to be,
And share the victory

I feel the earth move sunward,
I join the great march onward,
And take by faith, while living,
My freehold of thanksgiving

OUR ENGLISH COUSINS.

BY MRS H G ROWE

CHAP. I.

"And you really saw them, Mark! How many of them are there? and how do they look and appear? Come, do tell me all the particulars! I've been in a perfect fidget to know about them, for a week past;" and in her eagerness, the speaker set the coffee urn down with a jerk that threatened danger to the clearness of its contents, as well as to her own reputation as a sensible, self-controlled young lady.

Her brother smiled good naturedly, while he answered in a half bantering tone;

"What has awakened your curiosity in regard to our new neighbors, all at once? I thought you professed the most complete indifference on the subject, before I went away."

"So I did, until about a week ago, for I had heard that Miss Seymore's heir was only an elderly Englishman, a widower without family,—nothing to interest one in that, of course But last week Mrs. Parkman was in here, and told me that one of the girls up to the house, is a sister to her Rissy, and she told her that this Mr. Morton has one child, a daughter, and his nephew, who is a young Scottish lord is to come with them Just think of that," and Mabel's brown eyes danced merrily, "a real, live lord here in our little republican village, where everybody knows everybody, and the wood-sawyer calls the Squire 'old Joe,' and tells him to his face, that he's 'a tarnation fool ter buy sech a mean lot o' wood for his kitchen stove.' "

"We're all lords, here," laughed her brother, while Mabel went on with her girlish nonsense:

"Will they come in a grand carriage with footmen and outriders, I wonder, and will his lordship"——

"They came in the same train that I did, last night."

Mabel started at the unexpected interruption.

"You provoking old soul!" and she made a feint of throwing a spray of morning-glories across the table at him. "Why didn't you tell me of it before, and I might, by taking an early stroll in that direction, have caught a glimpse of his lordship, or even the lady of the enchanted castle herself"

"There, there Mabel, that will do," interposed Mark, with an indulgent smile at his sister's nonsense. "But seriously, now, you must leave off that absurd talk about 'enchanted castles, and imprisoned dames' that Miss Seymore's peculiarities put into your foolish little head, for these are social, live sort of people, who will be likely to mix in society, where they might hear such allusions and feel hurt by them."

"Certainly," echoed Mabel, good naturedly, "I must look out what I say now, I suppose, but when a house has been closed to visitors for years, people will joke on the subject, if nothing worse"

"But," she asked with renewed curiosity, "how did you happen to meet them?"

"Very naturally. We stopped at the same hotel, and Miss Seymore's agent, who is a friend of mine, introduced us."

"Is she,—the daughter—pretty and nice? and shall I like her?" queried Mabel eagerly

"I think so—yes, I'm sure you will. She is a trifle stately, perhaps, but thoroughly unaffected and, judging from what I saw of her, intelligent and refined."

"And the cousin—the young lord?" here the rosy lips assumed a real republican curl, as their owner asked rather scornfully

"Was he kindly condescending to his untitled neighbor. or did he prefer to remain wrapped in his dignity—and—plaidy?"

Mark took no notice of the sarcasm.

"McDonald is as fine a specimen of manhood as I have seen this many a day," he said warmly "He is frank and hearty in his manner, talks broad Scotch, if the least bit excited, abhors the bagpipe as a musical instrument, and is enthusiastic over our common school system.

Mr. Morton himself is a thorough Englishman,—a born conservative, but this Donald, as they call him, evidently leans strongly to republicanism."

"The aristocracy will crop out somewhere," was Mabel's uncharitable thought, but she only asked, carelessly, as she helped herself to a piece of the omelette:

"How is it that Mr. Morton, who is an Englishman has a Scottish nephew?"

"The agent, Mr. Grouse, told me that the young man's father, was an elder brother of this gentleman,—a Morton of McDonald, and that, while, according to the laws of hereditary succession in the old country, the older inherited the title and estate, the younger brother was educated in England, by his maternal relatives, who procured for him an appointment under government that afforded him a comfortable support."

"What a mean way of doing things," cried Mabel indignantly, "giving all to one, and nothing to the others. It's a relic of those old times when one son was [illegible] and petted, [illegible] made for him, while the other was driven off into the wilderness, to live or die, just as he could."

"We don't count [illegible] unjust," replied Mark, as he rose from the table. "But I mustn't stop to gossip any longer, or I shall be late at the office, and I promised to meet a man there at nine" and spurred by the remembrance of his engagement the young lawyer hurried off while his sister, under pretence of tying up a straggling spray of morning glory that clambered over the low window seat, took a sly peep at the handsome mansion opposite with its broad carefully kept grounds where summer after summer, the rarest flowers had bloomed and faded, untouched save by the hand of the gardener where clumps of curious trees and evergreens made cosy nooks that no idly strolling foot ever invaded, with vast hot houses and graperies where fruits of every variety ripened in the warm summery atmosphere, although no lip save that of their mistress ever moistened at their delicate sweetness

Now all this seemed about to be changed The mistress of the house was no longer a grey haired, solitary recluse, but a young girl full of life and spirits, whose very presence must bring sunshine to those long shadowed rooms, and drive out from their dusky corners the sprites of mystery and gloom that had for so many years, haunted the old mansion

Death must give place to life, gloom to cheerfulness, and solitude to social friendly companionship

There was a whimsical commingling of indifference and curiosity upon Mabel Hamilton's pretty face as, standing there shadowed yet scarce screened by the blossoming vines she watched the two who apparently oblivious of wet grass or neighbors eyes, were walking leisurely about the grounds peering curiously into every nook and corner with an eager, pleased curiosity, like two happy children

"Dark cambric wrapper, and brown garden hat," commented the watcher to herself "That's a sensible dress if one wants to do her walking in the morning before the dew is off of the grass and bushes They're examining that mountain ash, as if it were something wonderful—perhaps it is, to them.

There they go, up among the birches on the hill She won't take his arm and walks up as straight and strong as a man would There's English health, and womanly independence for you,—nothing of the oak and ivy there," and Mabel gave a little satisfied chuckle, at this new proof of the equality of the sexes, of which she was a staunch advocate, then, as the two figures disappeared from her sight, she added indifferently

"He's a good enough figure, tall and straight, but, light hair! oh, bah! I never could endure light haired men"

And with this parting 'fling at his lordship' the little housewife tripped away in tent, for the time, upon her daily duties and apparently forgetting as the hours flew by bringing, one after another, in quick succession. the usual array of household cares that such persons as the new neighbors ever the way were in existence

But if oblivious for the time of that interesting fact, she was not suffered long to remain so

"There Hannah," she was just saying put that gooseberry tart in the refrigerator it will be cool by dinner time, and then you may beat the frosting while I make the custard and"——

'Good mornin', Miss Hamilton! How d'ye do, this mornin'?" and the speaker, a tall, slabsided woman in a green berage sunbonnet and chocolate calico gown, gave a quick inquisitive glance at the array upon the pastry table, and then sank into the nearest chair with a sigh of relief

'Good gracious' It's hotter'n mustard, and the sunbonnet was plied vigorously in default of a fan, while Hannah faintly giggled behind her bowl of frosting, and Mabel said good naturedly

"Is that you, Mrs Parkman? I didn't see you until you spoke Yes, it is a very warm morning, especially" she added, as her rosy face grew rosier still over the glowing stove, 'for people who have to attend to their own cooking'

Mrs Parkman smiled grimly

'Then, I guess the grand Miss up there ter the big house won't mind it much this is if she goes on as she's begun"

Mabel looked up inquiringly for Mrs Parkman was known throughout the length and breadth of the village, as an inveterate newsmonger, and although secretly despised as such women always are, yet the temptation to listen to her gossip was seldom resisted even by the most conscientious of her neighbors

"Why, you see," she went on complacently, my Rissy has got a sister that works up there [the man that does their flower in [illegible] em engaged the help beforehand), and this mornin' she came over to our house terrible down in the mouth, an' says she

"'Miss Parkman, I know I shan't like 'em

"'Why?' says I"

"'Because,' says she, colorin' up I won't stay no where with folks that calls their help servants, an another thing, I won't work for nobody that's too lazy ter make her own bed

'Law,' says I, 'you don't pretend, now—

"'But I do' says she, 'an' what's more she locked every drawer an' closet door in her room, jest as if she thought I'd be a pryin into 'em.'"

"An' here the poor creatur fairly busted I never pitied anybody worse in my life an says I kinder soothin,' says I'

'I wouldn't mind it, Phronia Like as not she didn't think anything,—an' if she didn't lor', who cares for one of them ignorant outlandishmen.'"

"But she kep' on a cryin' an says she

"'Oh, Miss Parkman, if everybody was the angel you are, the poor girls that have ter work out 'd have an easier time than they do'"

"'Land sakes Phronia' says I 'I don't do nothin' more'n my duty, I hope, but speakin of this Englishwoman an' her stuck up ways I wouldn't take any more notice of em than I could help, but if wust comes ter wust you can come right ter our house for a while I've got some spinnin' that you can do for yer board, and'"——

"Nonsense!" interrupted Mabel with an emphasis, that made her visitor start what does the silly girl expect? Does she think, that while this Miss Morton is paying her to do her work that she isn,t to require her to do it? Or that she is to make an intimate of her because she is under the same roof?

Mrs Parkman bridled

"Phronia Hines is good enough company for me," she remarked with a dignified emphasis on the concluding pronoun, "an I don't see why she should be put down an stomped on by a prim, stuck up piece that happens to have a little more money so's she can be indulged in her laziness and pride'

"No doubt this Hines girl is well enough in her way,' replied Mabel with provoking coolness in fact, I have always heard of her as a good, neat, capable girl; and I don't blame her for wanting to be thought well of But if she takes such unreasonable jealousies and fancies into her head she will simply make herself a nuisance to all who have any thing to do with her"

"Phronia Hines aint no nuisance, if she is a poor girl that haint hed much schoolin', and has ter work for a livin'," loftily retorted Mrs Parkman, as she rose to take her leave; and Mabel in spite of her natural courageousness felt herself shaking a little in her shoes, as she realized that before noon, that day, half the neighborhood would have heard that:

"Mabel Hamilton was tryin' her best ter carry [illegible] with the new neighbors, just because they hed money an' could make a show," with [illegible] malicious surmises and hints that none understood better than Mrs. Parkman how to introduce with effect.

How [illegible] it seems when we stop to think of it, that we, the men and women of to-day, are so slow to speak a kindly word in behalf of the assailed, so willing to pass it by with the cowardly excuse:

"Am I my brother's keeper?"

That we are so lukewarm and tardy in refuting the slanderous attack upon another that in its contradictions and inconsistencies gives the lie direct to itself, even while the evil words are upon the speaker's tongue

But it's none of our business to speak up for the accused, although as sensible, pure-minded persons we cannot but disbelieve the charge ourselves But what's the use of saying so? There's the old commandment to be sure "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them" but that's centuries old and the world has been growing wiser all that time and now, it seems to be pretty universally conceded that the Priest and Levite who in urred our Saviour's condemnation by looking upon the man in trouble, and then quietly 'passing by upon the other side, were merely sensible prudent people who looked out for number one and left others to do the same

Besides it is quite a risk to stand up for people however unjustly they may be accused for it may be a charge that will rub off and some prying eye may even detect a smirch upon your own character, all on account of this very thing, as ye would be done by

They were some such thoughts as these that passed through Mabel Hamilton's mind as she busied herself in moulding the [illegible] and icing the currants for tea, cutting and forgetting nothing even while her thoughts were so busied where for all though so young, she had been, for several years her brother's housekeeper and was au fait in all the dainty details of housewifery that add so much to the comfort and elegance of a household

And that evening, as the two sat together on the open piazza, enjoying the coolness and quiet of the calm summer twilight, Mark was regaled with the whole story told in Mabel's own comical fashion although she ended by remarking in a sympathizing tone

"I'm afraid, though really, these foreign born neighbors of ours, in their ignorance of our republican ways will find more than one hornet's nest where they are only looking for an insignificant ball of brown paper We have our peculiar techniques, as Mrs Parkman would call them and it takes time and experience to find out just where to look for them

But after all his her brother made no answer to her remark "It's funny how interested I will feel in anybody just as soon as I've done them a kindness spoken a kind word for them even

And to this Mark assented with a smile that the gathering darkness considerately concealed

NASBY

Mr Nasby in a Despondent Frame of Mind The Members of the Kentucky Legislature Refuse to Stand by Principles

LOUISVILLE (which is in the State of Kentucky) Feb 3 1870 }

I don't know that reely there's any more use in living on this earth The fifteenth amendment is adopted and a nigger Senator will take the seat in the Senit wunst okkepied by that martyr, Jeffsn Davis Its about time for to go hentz—I have no desire for it I wood like to stay long enough to consoom the contents uv a red headed barrel in the [illegible] my blessed grosary into Noo York [illegible] I haint as yet put a water [illegible] probably I will I think I shel go home shut myself up in that back room [illegible] that part for [illegible] and [illegible] like Sardanapalis, my kingdom [illegible] me my funeral shel be my throne

[illegible] Kentucky [illegible] self the Dimocrisy uv that State in the [illegible] crisis The nigger Revels [illegible] in the Senit uv the United States, and uv course no white Kentucky Dimocrat can so degrade his self [illegible] Davis and McCreery wood immejitly resine and [illegible] no Kentucky Dimocrat wood take [illegible] in Kentucky could be [illegible] as ef it possibly they [illegible] chance for me I am a Northern Dimocrat by birth and Northern Dimocrats [illegible] to the Southern or the Southerners until too lately [illegible] The only thing [illegible] that left Kentucky [illegible] a citizen of New York But wat uv that? I kin swear I am a citizen of Kentucky [illegible] in Noo York politics enuff to be able to swear to anything

At all events I went on to my old State capitol got together a caucus uv the Dimocratic members uv the Legislachoor to consider the thing

The Chairman uv the caucus remarkt that the signs uv the times indikated trouble Kentucky that a nigger wuz admitted to the Senit wuz virtually disfranchised, for uv course Davis and McCreery cood not remain in their seats beside him No Kentucky gentlemen wood disgrace his proud State by practically takin his uzz on a male member uv an inferior race—uv ackn wledgin his equality and workin quietly with him Never! Sooner than see this he wood be willin to see States further South [illegible] in their struggle for their rites in the event in which Kentucky troo to the yoonyun [illegible] wood preserve a strict and dignified neutrality sellin horses and provender impartially to both armies He hoped the gentlemen wood express their views freely

A gentleman from the eastern part uv the State offered the following preamble and resolutions

Whereas, The Senit of the Yoonited States is about to admit to a seat in that body a nigger and

Whereas No Kentucky Dimocrat would degrade himself by sittin beside a nigger, therefore

Resolved That Hon Garret Davis be instructed to resine to-wunst

These resolooshuns passed to-wunst without a dissentin voice, and were sent by telegraph to the Senators to Washington after which I begd permission to offer a remark I sed that uv course no Kentuckian cood be found to take them places made vacant by the two eminent men who wuz about to leave the Senit but nevertheless Kentucky coodent afford to go unrepresented Is there no Northern man uv Kentucky principles who will rush to the front at this crisis?

Twenty gentlemen sprang to their feet The one who got the eye of the Chairman remarkt that Kentucky shood alluz be represented by Kentuckians Davis and McCreery clearly ought not to stay They shood resine to wunst ez a protest again this outrage but if Kentuckians cood be found who wood accept the places they shood be found Takin em ez they wood ez a necessity, there wood ent be the stigma attached that there wood be to the present incumbents ef they shood remain and possibly such mite be found

The chairman doubted whether there was a Kentuckian who hed so little respect for hisself Ef a Kentuckian wuz selected it shood be from the membership uv the Legislacher He felt that it wuz the dooty uv some two uv em to sacrifice theirselves on the altar uv their State It wood be a bitter degradashun for a man filled with the memories uv the past to choke down nateral pride and take a seat by a nigger but some one must do it. He wood sejest that the members proceed with the system in this matter Let us designate, by ballot our wishes. Let us vote for a man to fill the place to be made vacant by G Davis, and let the member upon whom this dooty devolves accept the sacrifice in the troo Kentucky spirit. Gentlemen, prepare your ballots for a successor to Davis, and get ready to shed a friendly tear over the fate uv the man upon whom the degradashun falls

This wuz agreed to, each member remarkin that no matter who wuz chosen there wuz no law to compel him to be electid and set beside a nigger

The members each voted, the votes were counted out, and, horrors! Each member had precisely one vote, and the [illegible] uv the hand writing on the tickets made it painfully certain that each member hed voted for his self! Ez my hopes wuz busted I coodent help singing out that a more self-sacrificin body uv men I never saw!

Then commenced the most fearful spectacle I ever witness. [illegible] anybody.

The gentlemen mostly remarked "H—l!" as this epistle wuz red to em, and dispers without the formality of an adjournment.

I hain't ez much faith in dimocrisy ez I yoost to hev. I sposed that when that nigger wuz finally admitted, that every dimocrat in the Senit wood resine; but wat do I find? Not one ez done it and the whole Legislature uv democrats are willing to take seats beside him!

Wat kin we expect when men are so recreant to their manhood? Is it any wonder that I am tired uv life? I shel go home to Noo York to wunst.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS!

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of the United States Patent Office Washington under the Act of 1837.

No 78 State Street, opposite Kilby Street Boston.

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years continues to secure patents in the United States, also in Great Britain France and other foreign countries Caveats Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for patents executed on reasonable terms with dispatch Researches made into American and Foreign works to determine the validity and utility of patents of invention and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same Copies of the claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar Assignments recorded in Washington

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions

During eight months the subscriber in the course of his large practice made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS every one of which was decided in his favor by the Commissioner of Patents

TESTIMONIALS

"I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse

CHARLES MASON Commissioner of Patents

I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office

EDMUND BURKE
Late Commissioner of Patents

Mr R H Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications on all but ONE of which patents have been granted and that one is now pending Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges
